UK RETAILER UTILISES SRS TO BOLSTER REPORTING CAPABILITIES

BDO were engaged to provide ad hoc accounting support in relation to a one-off management reporting project. This project was time sensitive and challenging from the organisation's internal resourcing capabilities, so BDO were engaged to help meet the imposed deadline.

The BDO team was led by Gareth Lynton Jones, who as lead partner, coordinated the take on process thereby enabling the secondee to begin her secondment within just two weeks of the initial discussion.

During an initial six-week secondment period, the BDO consultant worked directly with the financial reporting team, reporting to the Projects and Technical Accounting Senior Manager. She was given autonomy to complete the project and in order to do this utilised the SAP accounting system and engaged with various sub-teams across the internal finance function, including the capital accountants.

The BDO consultant completed the project ahead of initial expectations, and as a result the client re-deployed her to help with the preparation of statutory accounts for several of their subsidiary legal entities, which had complex intercompany structures and financing arrangements.

The secondment period was extended for a further two weeks so that the BDO consultant could continue to support the financial reporting team with this additional piece of work.

The Projects and Technical Accounting Senior Manager was very pleased with the outcome of the secondment and provided the following feedback:

The team and I were very pleased with the accounting support that BDO provided. Their consultant had a very positive attitude and was able to successfully deliver both the ad hoc management reporting work and then some statutory accounts preparation work both were delivered to a high standard.

In relation to the overall engagement, I'd like to thank BDO for the speed of your response to our initial request and ability to promptly provide the support we required.
